On Sabbatical

Dear all.

I have taken up an assignment to manually back test and fine tune a trading method. The work came through an NRI reader of the blog. I will be able to get some good exposure working for an overseas trading firm. The remuneration is also good that this will upgrade my status from Below Poverty Line trader.

I expect the work to last for at least three months. Till then there will not be any updates. Will be back blogging as soon as possible. Thank you very much for supporting me all these years.

Take Care and Trade well.

Sunilji

Nothing like that. No handling of huge funds.
It is just some sort of manual back testing. Remuneration is decent and I will be able to scale up my own trading a little with that.
