21022012

There was some problem with data feed during market open it seems. One could have taken trade 1 as a continuation of yesterday's move. But the first bar spoilt everything . Second trade was a disaster. Third one the retest of a broken support ended exactly at the FTA.. Fourth one was a good trade when the second attempt to go down failed to continue. Last BOF did not move, a breakeven trade, Tomorrow If the market opens around today's close ,5600-5630 may act as a range

Trade the price levels not patterns.

I will not take the second trade now. I will be entering only on the break of HOD

Do not go through very old posts as it will add to your confusion. The method and entry techniques have evolved over time.

Trading is something you learn by doing. I have spend a lot of time to perfect the method before. Later I understood that we must start doing it and solve the issues as we progress

Hi ST,
I was also going thru old charts until I came across this post. What is the oldest post from where I can start.

S Roy
Blog was started on 30012012
Dont give too much of importance to older charts as the method has evolved a lot over time ,even though the core concept remained the same. My intention was to document my thoughts lying scattered all over my brain. Never thought to make it public then. Some how it happened.

Hi ST,
Thank you so much, its a privilege to go thru all your charts review your thought process. From which point would it be good to review? 2013 perhaps?

Any method evolves over time. Not the core concepts, but tactics.
You can look at daily posts from 2013 as I have somewhat stabilized.
Still a long way to go. still cant do these kind of entries
